Democrats Balk At Granting Blank-Check Formosa Powers

Ask President To Define His Defense Plans

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Key Democrats urged today that President Eisenhower spell out in detail in a special message to Congress tomorrow this government's intentions with regard to the defense of Formosa. At least one said he hoped the President would not ask for "blank check" authority.

Despite a White House spokesman's statement that Eisenhower does not intend to draw any "blueprint for the Communist," Sens. Sparkman (D-Ala.), Mansfield (D-Mont.) and Douglas (D-Ill.) called in separate interviews for a specific clarification of Far Eastern policy.

The White House announced Saturday the President will send a message to Congress tomorrow morning dealing with U. S. policy in connection with security of Chinese Nationalist-held Formosa and ask for its support.

Republican leaders said the President plans to ask authority to define and defend a line beyond which Chinese Communists could not attack without meeting American resistance. They indicated the message would not specify where that line would run.

Sparkman, head of the Senate Foreign Relations Far Eastern subcommittee, said he hopes the President outlines a policy that won't leave anyone guessing about American intentions in the Formosa area.

"One of our greatest needs is clarification of our policy so that the whole world may know just what we will do with reference to the defense of Formosa," Sparkman said. "We are obligated to do whatever is necessary in its defense, but we ought to let the whole world know what it involves."

Mansfield, a Foreign Relations committee member, said that if Eisenhower "wants to be on sound ground he will have to spell out his intentions" in the message, rather than ask for what the Montana senator called a "blank check."

"I hope the President will not ask us for legislation that either directly or indirectly gives him power to wage war beyond the great constitutional powers he already has in that field," Mansfield said, adding:

"If the President intends asking merely for general authority, Congress will have to give such a request the closest kind of scrutiny to avoid abdication of our own responsibility and the issuance of a blank check to the President to use as he sees fit."

Mansfield said that the Formosa defense pact which the Foreign Relations Committee will take up Tuesday spells out a defense line which includes Formosa itself and the nearby Pescadores Islands. He said the fact that the President plans to ask for authority to define and hold a line of U. S. defenses, as reported by Republican leaders, "indicates he may have another line in mind."

Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles have said that the Nationalist-held Tachen Islands lying off the China coast 200 miles north of Formosa are not vital to the defense of the area.

Douglas, a veteran of Pacific fighting in World War II, said these statements have created confusion and doubt.

"It is highly desirable that our position in the Formosa area be clarified," he said. "The statements of the President and Secretary Dulles that they do not regard the Tachens as of strategic value may have invited Communist attacks on the islands."

There was no official comment here on reports from Taipei today that elements of the U. S. 7th Fleet were moving toward the Tachens in anticipation of orders to cover the evacuation of Nationalist forces there and be ready for action if the Reds try to interfere.

These reports said the Tachen evacuation, which Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist government has opposed, were part of a package deal that would put at least Quemoy and Matsu under U. S. protection.

Lodge Says Moscow's Power In U. N. Is At All-Time Low After Two Year Battle

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Jan. 23 (AP)—After two hectic years of verbal dueling with the Russians, Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. says he is convinced Moscow's influence in the U. N. is at an "all-time low."

Conversely, he says, with obvious pride that American satisfaction with the progress of the U. N. is at an all-time high.

"I'm glad to see that happen," he said in an exclusive interview marking the end of two years as head of the U. S. mission to the U. N. "I think I had something to do with that."

Lodge summed up his philosophy of the assignment in this way: "The job here is essential to the life and liberty of the American people. While the U. N. has not worked out in the way people thought it would from a legal point of view, it has become a vital forum of public opinion. This makes the place absolutely vital. Second, it is a center for harmonizing differences and in that it has measured up to expectations. The challenge of the future is to get more countries in the U. N. I would eliminate the veto on the admission of new members."

That is all he would do with the veto. He would not change its application to the use of military force by the big powers. He would use it to bar Red China from a place on the Security Council—on that point he is clear, definite and final.

Lodge said his mission when he came to the U. N. Jan. 26, 1953, was to restore public faith in the U. N. After two years, he said, he feels he has achieved that mission to a great extent.

Lodge seemed happiest about the unanimous vote achieved in the Assembly last session for a resolution endorsing President Eisenhower's atom-for-peace plan. He worked harder to achieve this unity than he has worked on any other single proposal in the U. N.

Lodge listed some of the other achievements during his two years here. These included the Korean armistice and retention of the principle of voluntary repatriation, condemnation of Communist atrocities against U. N. troops in Korea, 24 separate votes to bar Red China from U. N. organizations, and condemnation of Red China for jailing the American aviators.

U. N. Veto Ban Study Revived In U. S. Senate

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—A Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee staff study revived the question today of whether this country would want to back elimination of the veto in the U. N. Security Council.

The question was discussed in connection with various proposals advanced for revising the U. N. charter to strengthen peace enforcement machinery of the world organization.

In an introduction to the study, Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.), subcommittee chairman in the last Congress, said frequent use of the veto by Russia prevented the Security Council from functioning as anticipated when the U. N. charter was drafted a decade ago.

"Nevertheless," he said, "the urge of nations toward peace has been so strong that we have seen developed within the U. N. system other means to prevent war."

Wiley cited both regional security arrangements, such as the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Organization of American States, and an enlarged role by the U. N.'s General Assembly.

As for elimination of veto power now held by the United States, Russia, Great Britain, France and Nationalist China, the staff report said:

"Unquestionably, the use of the veto by the Soviet Union in recent years has seriously circumscribed the capacity of the Security Council to discharge its function of enforcement."

But it added that proposals to curb the veto also raise questions that should not be overlooked. It asked:

"Would the United States be willing, for example, to supply armed forces for a U. N. enforcement action of which we did not approve? That could be a consequence of the elimination of the veto."

"Furthermore, would the United States be willing to assign enforcement functions beyond those of a voluntary nature to a General Assembly in which it has only one out of 60 votes?"

"The pending GI education bill, authored by Chairman Teague (D-Tex.) of the House Veterans Affairs Committee, would allow men who are in service on Jan. 31 to continue accumulating post-service schooling rights beyond that date."

Teague plans to hold hearings on the measure tomorrow and Tuesday. Then he hopes to win quick committee and House approval in order to get it over to the Senate, where a favorable reception seems likely. The bill is approved by President Eisenhower and major veterans' organizations.

It would revise part of Eisenhower's Jan. 1 order barring various Korean War benefits to men entering service after Jan. 31. The directive had the effect of cutting off, for men already in service by that date, any further accrual of education rights which now accumulate at the rate of 1½ days of schooling for each day in service.

Teague's bill would allow these rights to continue to accumulate to the present maximum of 36 months, a benefit which the Veterans Administration figures is worth $5,000 a man.

Eisenhower's New Year's Day order still would deny the schooling and other special war-service benefits to men entering the armed forces after Jan. 31. This coming switch back to peacetime has aroused some congressional sentiment for an expansion of post-Feb. 1 veterans' aids.

But Cooper, who earlier planned only brief hearings, has been besieged by requests for an opportunity to appear before the committee. Altogether, counting the seven Eisenhower Cabinet members who led off testimony last week, the committee has scheduled 71 witnesses supporting the program and 125 opponents — a total of 206. Others could be added.

So far all the testimony has come from supporters, including some who endorse the President's goals but say his program is too timid. On Tuesday, however, opponents plan a big rally here. They will get in their licks in testimony starting Wednesday.

GI School Benefits Measure Ticketed For Speedy Action

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—A bill to continue GI schooling benefits for men now in service was ticketed for fast action this week.

Broader and more controversial legislation, designed to expand benefits for veterans of peacetime service, seemed certain to be proposed in the wake of the schooling bill. But indications were it would be more difficult to jell the organized support needed to push through such measures.

The pending GI education bill, authored by Chairman Teague (D-Tex.) of the House Veterans Affairs Committee, would allow men who are in service on Jan. 31 to continue accumulating post-service schooling rights beyond that date.

U. N. Waits For Health Report On U. S. Fliers

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Jan. 23 (AP)—The U. N. was still waiting today for Red China's Premier Chou En-lai to furnish health reports on four U. S. jet fliers held prisoner in North China.

The reports were promised two weeks ago when Chou handed over packets of photographs and other documents to U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld describing the condition of 11 American fliers and two civilians jailed on "spy" charges.

Hammarskjöld brought the packets back with him from Peiping and formally turned them over to the United States last Monday. He divulged that Chou told him the four jet fliers were in good health in a camp in North China and that data on them would have to be forwarded after Hammarskjöld left Peiping.

There was further communication with Peiping last week through the door Hammarskjöld said he opened by his free-the-fliers trips, but there has been no sign of the promised data.

Relatives of the fliers were still debating whether to accept the invitation issued by Red China last Friday to come see their men.

Except for the announcement of the invitation here and a quick official statement that the relatives could be assured they would be safe if they went to China, the U. N. remained chary about taking any stand.

Part Of Deal To Defend Off-Shore Islands

TAIPEH, Formosa, Jan. 23 (AP)—Three U. S. carriers and other warships today steamed toward the invasion-menaced Tachens to await orders to cover the evacuation of the garrison in a deal by which the United States would help to defend some offshore islands, a reliable source said.

The informant said the U. S. warships were ready for action in the event the Communists try to interfere.

Peiping radio heard in Tokyo cold-shouldered any plan for a U. N. ceasefire, declaring it was a U. S. "plot" to "interfere in the domestic affairs of China."

Had it not been for the U. S. 7th Fleet, which guards Formosa from Red invasion, Formosa "would have been liberated years ago," said Peiping, quoting the People's daily, official newspaper of the Chinese Communist party.

The perilous nature of the waters into which the warships were reported moving was underscored by these two latest flareups:

1. An air battle broke out south of the Tachens, which are 200 miles north of Formosa, when the Chinese Communists intercepted a flight of four Nationalist planes. No damage to either side was reported.

2. The Defense Ministry said Nationalist artillery broke up an attempt by a small Red force of more than 10 junks to invade one of the islands near the Matsu Island group 100 miles northwest of Formosa. Matsu and Quemoy, across the strait from Formosa, would be brought under the 7th Fleet's protection as part of the deal, informants said.

Informed sources said the Nationalist withdrawal from the Tachens was contingent upon President Eisenhower setting a final seal to the plan for regrouping Nationalist forces and President Chiang Kai-shek issuing orders to the Tachen garrison to withdraw.

In Washington, informed officials said Eisenhower in a special message to the Congress question Monday would request authorization to use U. S. air and naval forces in regrouping Nationalist troops.

Both Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles have said the Tachens and some other offshore islands are of little importance to Formosa's defense. But the policy toward Formosa has been regarded as applying to other islands considered vital for the defense.

The three carriers—identified in Manila as the Essex, the Yorktown and the Kearsarge—avoided the dangerously narrow waters of Formosa Strait in sailing from Manila. They skirted Formosa on the east, informed sources reported.

All the 7th Fleet units involved were close to their assigned positions at last reports. The last of them were said to be less than one day's sailing from the Tachens.

Sources aware of the details say the withdrawal of the 20,000 soldiers and guerrillas from the Tachen group was part of a package deal which would put at least Quemoy and the Matsus under the protection of the 7th Fleet. The fleet hitherto has been assigned only to protect Formosa and the nearby Pescadores.

Vice Adm. Alfred M. Pride, 7th Fleet commander, conferred with Chiang after a hurried return from Hong Kong. U. S. Ambassador Karl Rankin and Maj. Gen. William C. Chase, head of the U. S. Military Assistance Advisory Group, sat in on the conferences.

The United States apparently overcame Nationalist reluctance to quit the Tachens, which are mountainous, afford few landing beaches and are easy to defend.

This does not mean Taipei agrees fully to the wisdom of the U. S. plan. But it is understood the Nationalists believe the White House acted in the best of motives.

Americans appear to hope that after some offshore islands come under the 7th Fleet's wings, the Communists will refrain from action and the Nationalists will lie low, thus creating, for awhile at least, an "all quiet" in Formosa Strait.

New Tax Credits Work For Dividends, Pensions

By FRANK O'BRIEN
AP News Features

(Note: The internal revenue service has determined that some of the instructions in form 1040 for computing the tax credit on retirement income are not as intended by law. This article locates the incorrect instructions, and tells you the correct procedure, according to the advice of the revenue service.)

You can take a bite right out of your tax liability with two new tax credits provided by Congress in the new tax law.

This is in addition to one big tax credit familiar to almost everyone—the credit you get for taxes already withheld from your salary through the year. And other previously allowed credit—for any estimated tax payments you may have made during the year, any refund coming to you from last year, and credit for any overpayment of social security tax resulting from working for more than one employer during the year—may also still be taken.

The same kinds of dividends eligible in figuring a tax exclusion, discussed in the previous article, are also eligible for figuring the tax credit for dividend income. But the credit is based only on dividends included in your income. You figure the credit in the same schedule 4, at the top of page 4 of form 1040, where you figured your dividend exclusion.

Here is how the tax credit provisions work:

First, dividend income—husband and wife lump together their dividend income eligible for a tax credit. But they must previously have figured their dividend income separately to get their exclusions, each excluding only his or her own dividend income up to $50. And only dividends not excluded may count toward the tax credit.

On your 1954 income, only dividends received after July 31, 1954, are eligible for a tax credit. (Line 4 of column B of Schedule J.)

After you have added up separately dividends received up to July 31, 1954, and those received after July 31, you deduct your exclusion or exclusions (up to $50 each on a joint return), taking all the exclusions out of dividends received up to July 31, if possible, but going over into dividends received after that date if necessary.

The remainder of your eligible dividends received after July 31, 1954, is the part of your dividend income on which you may figure your tax credit.

Your credit is the smallest of these three:

1. Four per cent of the remainder of your dividends received after July 31, 1954 after taking out any exclusion.
2. Your tax (after taking a credit for any foreign income tax paid).
3. Two per cent of your taxable income.

Whichever of these is the smallest, you can deduct from your tax liability (which you find in the tax table or compute). You deduct your dividend credit from your tax liability at line 8A on page 1 of form 1040.

Second, retirement income credit—(Both husband and wife may claim separately. You need not be a formally retired person to claim retirement income credit.)

Taxpayers who are under 65 may claim as retirement income to be used to get a tax credit only taxable income received under public retirement systems. This eliminates pay from social security, and railroad retirement, because they are tax exempt. And it eliminates commercial retirement pay and annuities, and armed forces retirement pay.

Taxpayers who are 65 or older can claim for a retirement pay tax credit all taxable income in the form of pensions, annuities, interest, rents and dividends.

Eligible for use in getting a credit are taxable state, municipal and U. S. Civil Service retirement plans.

Here are two general rules to figuring retirement income credit:

1. You must have earned over $300 income during at least 10 years (not consecutive years, necessarily), previous to 1954.
2. The retirement income you may use in computing your credit will be the smaller of the following two figures:—Your actual, eligible retirement income, or—$1,200, reduced by any income you received in 1954 from the following:

1. Social Security.
2. Railroad retirement.
3. Veterans pensions.

In addition, if you are under 75 years old, you must deduct any pay you received during 1954 for personal services (work of any kind) over $300. If you are 75 or over, there is no limit to the amount of pay you may receive in addition to your retirement income, without having to deduct it from the $1,200.

In making these calculations it will be necessary to correct your form 1040. The internal revenue service has determined that the instructions about retirement income are not what the law intended in two instances.

The erroneous instructions in the tax form direct you, on line 2 schedule K, to enter the smaller of:

1. Your eligible retirement income.
2. $1,200.

And line 5 of schedule K directs you to enter the balance you get after subtracting the result on line 4 from what you enter at line 2.

It has now been determined that this is not what the new tax law intended. The other lines in the schedule are not affected.

If you will take a pencil and make the following corrections on your form in schedule K, you will have the correct directions for computing your income tax credit.

Make line 2 read: "Enter here $1,200 . . ."

Make line 5 read: "Balance (line 2 minus line 4, or line 1, whichever is smaller.)"

This allows you to compute your retirement income tax credit on the smaller of:

1. Your total eligible retirement income.
2. $1,200 reduced by what you must deduct in lines 3A and 3B.

Your retirement income credit is 20 per cent of the smaller of the above two.

If you worked for more than one employer in 1954, it is possible that more than the amount you should have paid as social security tax has been deducted from your income.

In no case should the social security deductions total more than $72 for 1954. If they do, you can claim a tax credit for the excess, on line 11 of form 1040 A, or in the "Income Tax Withheld" column of item 2, on page 1 of form 1040. Mark the entry "F.I.C.A. tax" in the "where employed" column.

At this point, all the ground necessary to filing form 1040A has been covered. Remember, you may not use form 1040A if you want to claim credit against your tax for dividend income, or for retirement income. If you wish to do so, you must use form 1040.

The following articles will deal with deductions that can be made only by using form 1040, and with other income that can be handled only on that form. If you file form 1040A, your district director will figure your tax, giving you your exemptions and the standard 10 percent deduction for personal expenses, plus credit for any excess social security payment you may have entered on line 11.

300 Attend Youth Center Dance Party

AN ESTIMATED 300 teen-agers attended the regular Youth Center dance in the American Legion post home Saturday night.

Youth Center directors announced the total and said that "in general the attendance at all dances this year has been excellent."

The board also reminded teen-agers in both boroughs that no dance is scheduled for this coming Saturday night. The Legion auditorium is being used this weekend for a Legion-sponsored "winter carnival."

Housewives Hire, Fire Selves To Get Job Benefits

OLDHAM, England, Jan. 23 (P)—The scheme of two housewives who qualified for jobless insurance benefits by doing each other's washing came to light in this Lancashire town today. Here's how it worked:

They employed each other and met every Monday to exchange laundry. For six months—the minimum required to qualify for unemployment compensation—they stamped each other's national insurance cards, signifying they worked. Then they fired each other.

For the next six months they collected jobless benefits amounting to $3.64 per week each. Then they rehired each other and started another cycle.

A Labor Ministry official said "I don't think there's anything we can do about it . . . It is probably going on all over the country."

Dr. Rumsey will be out of town from Jan. 18 to Feb. 2, inclusive.—Adv.

Leaky Raft, Squalls, 20 Foot Waves, Sharks Beset Airmen Downed In Pacific

By Roy Essoyan

HONOLULU, Jan. 23 (P)—There was the heaving sea, and sharks, and search planes which could not see the seven Navy airmen huddled in a tiny raft bobbing among 20-foot swells.

It was a 52-hour struggle with the sea. The sea lost. The seven were picked up by the military transport Ainsworth Friday.

An unnamed spokesman for the seven today radioed to the Hawaiian Sea Frontier what it was like after their twin-engine amphibian plane developed engine trouble on a flight from Kwajalein to Johnston Island in the Central Pacific Wednesday.

"We started to dump fuel," the spokesman said, "200 gallons from the port tank. Then we cut it off and started dumping the starboard tank but could not stop the flow so we decided to ditch the plane real quick."

Radio messages were flashed from the stricken PBY. When the plane hit the water, one raft blew away. All seven managed to pile into the remaining raft.

Packed into the raft were Lt. James G. Measel, pilot, Norfolk, Va.; Ens. Harrison B. Nordstrom, copilot, St. Paul, Minn.; Ens. Robert N. Gordon, navigator, Watertown, Mass.; Aviation Electronics Technician 2C Edward G. Norwalk, Buffalo, N.Y.; Aviation Mechanic Mate 1C William C. Pavay, Warwick, R.I.; and Aviation Electronics Technician 2C Jerome J. Warras, Detroit.

"We watched the plane," said the spokesman, "which started to sink immediately and sank steadily for half an hour, then disappeared."

Sea swells ranged from 8 to 20 feet, the water was choppy, and there were rain squalls about every 10 minutes.

"The kite for the radio would not fly," the message said, "so we floated a balloon which floated for an hour. Then the wind broke the antenna."

"We noticed a hole in the bottom of the raft at 6 p.m. There being no repair kit, fingers and wooden corks from oar handles were used to plug holes for 56 hours (actually it was about 62 hours). The pumps were used continuously. Sharks were bumping the bottom of the raft and five of us were seasick."

The second day the men cranked the radio periodically until nightfall, and that was a day of frustration.

Two of the search planes came into view, but neither saw the little raft.

On the third day, they inflated a second balloon and cranked the radio again.

"But rain forced operations to cease after half an hour," the message related. "Then at 11 a.m. the P4Y (Coast Guard plane) was sighted and the men shot off their smoke bombs."

"They circled and came back. They dropped one raft which floated away. They dropped a radio which we recovered and we messaged we needed another raft."

A B29 Superfort plane then appeared and dropped a 23-foot boat with food, water and medical supplies.

Eleanor Kulp Injures Knee

DELAWARE WATER GAP—Eleanor Kulp, of this village, a high school student, fell and dislocated her knee while skating yesterday afternoon at Lake Lenape here.

Friends put her in a car and called Dr. Paul Maxwell of this village. He reduced the dislocation, and the girl was driven home.

"That was like the Fourth of July for us," the message said. "Three minutes later we were all aboard the boat."

Despite the ordeal, all seven were reported in good physical condition.

Leader Asks General Assembly To Reorganize Commonwealth

Emergency Taxes Due For Passage

HARRISBURG, Jan. 23 (AP)—Gov. George M. Leader will ask the General Assembly tomorrow for broad powers to reorganize departments of the state government in the interest of economy and efficiency.

Thomas K. Hodges, the governor's press secretary, said tonight final decision has yet to be made on whether Leader will deliver his message in person or send it to the House and Senate by messenger.

The message was represented as calling for consolidation of some state agencies and a general re-shuffling of governmental functions somewhat along the lines of the report by the Chesterman State Government Committee in 1953.

That committee, headed by Francis J. Chesterman, Philadelphia, and set up by former Gov. John S. Fine, envisioned a saving of 100 million dollars a biennium through adoption of its recommendations over a period of years.

Republicans and Democrats in the legislature joined in the 1953 session in scrapping most of the Chesterman recommendations. Leader said during the campaign he felt the Chesterman committee was "too optimistic" but that he felt "some important savings" could be accomplished through a realignment of state functions.

Leader's message to the Assembly for reorganization powers follows a series of directives to heads of state departments to cut costs down the line and to trim budget requests compiled by the Fine Administration for the 1955-57 biennium.

Bills were being prepared, it was learned, to carry out Leader's reorganization plan along with another batch to re-enact so-called "emergency" taxes. Some of the latter have been in effect since the last Democratic administration of Gov. George H. Earle in 1935-39 but require re-enactment each two years.

The governor's call for a reorganization of the state government conforms to a campaign promise. Leader, in a speech at Philadelphia last Oct. 19, criticized the existing state accounting system and said the first task of his administration would be "to restore effective management and install honest, understandable accounting."

"I will ask the legislature," he said then, "to pass an act providing for reorganization of the state department, department by department, beginning with the Revenue Department. We can then make a forthright last-ditch effort to run this state to give you (taxpayers) a dollar's worth of service for every dollar spent."

Sen. Rowland B. Mahany, Republican floor leader, said no GOP roadblocks would be set up against passage of some 200 million dollars in so-called "emergency" taxes.

"We see no objection to re-enacting the 'emergency' taxes," he told a newsmen.

The taxes include such levies as the 1 per cent real estate transfer tax, and 1 per cent of the 5 per cent tax on corporate net income.

Speaker H. G. Andrews said introduction of the "emergency" tax bills, would be the first order of business in the House.

He anticipated little trouble in their clearing the Democratic-controlled House. Mahany's pledge indicated they would pass that branch also in a short time.

The "emergency" tax package won't include the 1 per cent sales levy which Democrats promised would be allowed to expire automatically next Sept. 1.

Leader is confronted, by his own estimates, with recommending enactment of a half billion dollars in new taxes, less any cut made in costs, to balance the commonwealth budget in the biennium starting June 1.

There was little doubt that he would give quick approval to the "emergency" tax program to give him time while Democrats prepared a tax plan to balance the budget.

Re-enactment of the "emergency" taxes plus existing levies would provide the administration with 700 million dollars to keep the state government going until the budget is balanced completely.

Meanwhile, the Senate prepared to receive proposals by both the Republicans and Democrats on adjusting the "safety factor" in the Unemployment Compensation Fund.

The fund barely kept above the "peril point" Dec. 31, averting an automatic reduction in jobless benefits from a $20 a week maximum

Hundreds Of Volunteers Ready For Mothers March Between 6:30-7:30 Tuesday Night

WITH A heavy polio year behind them and the prospect of a prevention for the disease in the year ahead, Monroe County women will carry out their annual Mothers' March on Polio Tuesday.

The march will be held from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. in all Monroe County communities. The burgesses of four boroughs yesterday issued a proclamation setting Tuesday aside as "Mothers' March on Polio" day.

Yesterday the "porchlight message" was carried from Monroe County church pulpits, also. Ministers in nearly all churches in the area gave short reminders to members of their congregation on the purposes and goals of the Mothers' March, urging them to turn on their porchlights Tuesday night as a signal for a marcher to stop and receive a donation.

Injured Man In Hospital

A TANNESVILLE man injured Saturday in a fight outside a tavern in that village was in "fair condition" last night at General Hospital.

He was John E. Hay, who was taken to the office of Dr. Edward T. Horn Jr. about 5:30 p.m. and given first aid. He was then moved to the hospital in an ambulance. Dr. Horn said he notified Stroudsburg State police of the incident.

Hay, 37, is the father of five. He is a carpenter. Hospital authorities said last night he was "improving" and said his condition resulted in part from a head injury.

Mothers March Proclaimed By Burgesses

TUESDAY was set aside as "Mothers' March on Polio" day in Monroe County by official proclamation of the four borough burgesses yesterday.

Signed by all four burgesses, the proclamation reads:

Tuesday has been designated as the date for the Mothers' March on Polio. This march will bring to a close the 1955 March of Dimes.

The financial obligations of the March of Dimes have so increased during the past five years that, each year, the funds have been exhausted.

Because the continuation of help to polio sufferers and the climax of vital research depend entirely upon the voluntary contributions collected during the March of Dimes this one day, during which Monroe County women and mothers give their services, is set aside to emphasize the overall importance of the fight to conquer polio.

To protect the children of Monroe County and to aid in the research which may, in the near future, provide a polio preventive vaccine, therefore, we, by the powers invested in us as burgesses of Stroudsburg, East Stroudsburg, Mount Pocono and Delaware Water Gap.

Do hereby proclaim Tuesday, Jan. 25 to be Mothers' March on Polio Day in Monroe County. We ask that all porch lights be lighted in every home in our districts between 6:30 and 7:30 p.m. on that day to let it be known that a marcher is invited to call for a donation to the March of Dimes in order that this great humanitarian program may be carried on with renewed vigor and without critically damaging interruption in either field-research or rehabilitation.

In Witness Whereof, we have set our hands and seals.

Mrs. Robert Forney, Mrs. Elwood German, Mrs. Walter Weber, Mrs. Marlin Serfass, Mrs. John Baylor, Mrs. Ernest Horn, Mrs. Edwin Buck, Mrs. Foster Minnich, Mrs. Thomas Rinehart, Mrs. Allan Keiper.

Also Mrs. Peter Everitt, David Everitt, Mrs. John Possinger, Mrs. Robert Morley, Mrs. Edward McMahon, Mrs. Wilmer Frisbie, Mrs. Frank Gouger and Mrs. Harold Hosier.

Stroudsburg Security Trust Co. will be the central depository for all donations except those taken in East Stroudsburg borough. East Stroudsburg National Bank will be the depository there.

All other workers, captains and lieutenants should make their deposits at Stroudsburg Security Trust when the collection is completed in their specific area.

Fire Damages $8,000 Home In Bangor While Owners Are Attending Services

BANGOR—Fire broke out in an $8,000 stucco residence here last night at 9:25.

The house is owned by Thomas Padula, 22 N. Sixth St. The fire was discovered by Padula's son, Thomas Jr., who lives next door.

No one was in the house at the time of the fire. Padula and his wife were attending services at First Pentecostal Church, three doors down the block.

Three fire companies, with an estimated 50 firemen, answered the alarm. They were still fighting the blaze at 10:15 p.m.

According to firemen most of the blaze seemed to have been confined to the partitions and the framework of doors and windows.

No estimate of total damages was available last night but a member of the family said the home was valued at $8,000.

Companies answering the alarm were Second Ward, Liberty and Rescue. Firemen were at the scene less than three minutes after the alarm was turned in, an observer said.

How Unpopular Is It?

Every time the matter of universal military training is brought up before the Congress of the United States, and it has been presented at virtually every session for many long years, the immediate reaction of a large element in the Congress and among those who jump at conclusions that such legislation is as unpopular as any measure can be.

This year is no exception, with observers of the political scene virtually unanimous in agreement that President Eisenhower's military manpower program is in for rough sledding.

The argument is that this program constitutes a watered-down version of universal military training and that Congress will never support a measure so repugnant to the American public.

But is this to be accepted without challenge? Just how unpopular is UMT?

Granted that we are not a nation militarily inclined, and that most young men prefer to look otherwise than to the services when planning a career, at the same time there is increasing evidence that the generation most vitally affected are not solidly aligned against the proposition.

Matter of fact, recent polls by Dr. Gallup and by Myrick Land of the Institute of Public Opinion have produced results showing 72 per cent. of the parents questioned and 66 per cent. of the students in favor of such a training plan.

On The Spot

President Eisenhower has gone down the line repeatedly for the United Nations as the best hope for this divided world to attain a lasting peace.

He has stuck resolutely by the UN, as he is doing in the current negotiations to bring about the release of our imprisoned airmen, in the face of what Secretary of State Dulles has called "a strong sentiment in favor of direct action" by the United States on its own.

The call of the President last week for the UN to step into the war between Communist China and the Nationalists and attempt to bring about a cease-fire serves as added recognition by the President and the United States Government that Americans want to see the UN make good. It casts the UN in anything but the role of "a glorified debating society."

If it puts the UN on a terrible spot, it isn't because of deliberate intention. It couldn't be any other way. As long as open fighting and violence flare anywhere in the world, the chances of a powder keg explosion rocking the entire world exist. And it is the major job of the UN to keep the dynamite from being set off.

Certainly the world is sitting on a powder keg in the Formosan Straits. And just what the UN can do about it is extremely problematical. Neither the Communists nor the Nationalists of Chiang Kai-shek appear willing to touch a truce effort by the UN with a 10-foot pole. There is even a question whether a cease-fire attempt can get off the ground in the UN Security Council, where the Nationalists hold veto power.

Presupposing the UN can bring the Nationalists and Communists together, and that will take a stroke of genius, it still would be—as the President himself remarked—"a good question" what kind of compliance we could expect from a cease-fire in the Formosan Straits. The Communist record of compliance in the Korean truce is a pretty sorry one.

The UN is on the spot. But it is not alone. We all are there, too.

George Sokolsky Says...

Real Trouble Affecting Prisoners In Red China Is—Nobody Knows What To Do

It was difficult to understand, when he left for his safari to Peking, what Dag Hammarskjöld of the United Nations hoped to accomplish. So far as the American people are concerned, it was assumed that he went to see Chou En-lai to ask him to free the American prisoners of war who should have been exchanged at Panmunjom but who were in identifiable uniforms. If they could not be because they were in identifiable uniforms. It is euphemistic to call these men United Nations military personnel — they are Americans and they are the responsibility of our government.

So far as the Chinese people are concerned, Hammarskjöld came a-begging, thus giving face to a government that has no seat in the United Nations. In a word, to use a Chinese expression, he kow-towed to the Communist government of China, strengthening that government's prestige in Asia where such a gesture is understood in Asiatic terms. Hammarskjöld may wish for the recognition of Red China by the United Nations, but that, under the Charter, is none of his business.

The fact is that the fliers have not been freed. A large number of Americans are still held in China. No official figure has been disclosed by the American Government which probably can have no exact figure. Some are businessmen and missionaries; some are military personnel who may have been reported missing in action or even dead. The Red Chinese have not even shown our government the courtesy of providing accurate data.

In the many years that I lived in China, during which I saw considerable military action, I never encountered what we would call a prisoner camp. Captives were either killed or incorporated in the capturing army. Many were permitted to escape, to save the cost of feeding and housing them, and they became bandits. The term bandit and soldier were interchangeable during the wars of the Tachens, the civil wars that lasted from 1912 to about 1932, a period of almost constant internal strife.

The Red Chinese refinement is to call these men spies rather than bandits, to wash their brains rather than to incorporate them into their armies, to hold them as hostages for some advantage in the negotiations for recognition by the United States and the United Nations. The prisoners are hostages.

There is no reason to believe that the Red Chinese would change their conception of the entire question of prisoners of war to please Dag Hammarskjöld who came to Peking empty handed. If he could bargain with Chou En-lai, as one used to bargain with a jade dealer, that would have been a different matter, but Hammarskjöld had no bargaining power and therefore he could only listen to their complaints and to their offers. But he could not get the fliers freed.

As a matter of fact, the Red Chinese showed their contempt for him and for the United States by starting another bombardment of the Tachien Islands while he was still in Peking and just leaving. Chinese courtesy—he did—would have indicated to Chou that the bombardment be held up until after he had arrived in New York, so that he, Hammarskjöld, would not lose face, but the present regime in Peking pays no attention to such trivialities.

The point of the matter is that Chou leaves us three alternatives:

1. Let the prisoners stay in China and rot there;
2. Throw the bomb at Red China;
3. Recognize them on condition that they graciously permit all Americans now held in China to be returned to the United States, and we would have to take their word that they are sticking to their contract as we do not know how many they hold.

Whether we are patient or impatient will affect the situation little unless we go to war, which we do not want to do. Therefore, we are stuck with a bad mess and we might as well face it.

I recently saw a screening of a motion picture, "Bamboo Prison," which was made by Bryan Foy with rare sensitivity. This picture gives a dramatic impression of what a Chinese prison is and how Americans are treated. It is all a story, but I could not help thinking of our boys who are still eating millet and having their brains washed and I realized that the real trouble is that nobody knows what to do about it.

With everybody, from the kid to grandpa, longing to own a boat of some kind and be seafarers on time payments... England is marketing a milk spick with liquor... It's made of milk, hibiscus honey and rum, gin, brandy or whisky... This is going to create a terrific appetite for honey... Boy, one milk on the rocks!

The Once Over

—by H. I. Phillips

The Motor Car TV General Motors is showing an experimental car with a TV set on the back of the front seat.

This can prove to be the answer to the problem of how to stop back-seat driving... But fancy what it can mean if the TV screen is ever put in front of the operator!... Imagine having to drive through heavy traffic, ballet dancers, trained dogs, jack-pot audiences and baseball games at one and the same time!... We anticipate the day when our answer to the motorcycle cop, after we have torn off somebody's fender, will be "I'm sorry, officer, I was only doing four channels per hour and got shunted into the other car by one of those TV spectators."

The rear seat TV will be bad enough, with the wife clamoring "Are we near Highland Falls yet, Hilary, or have I still got time for another twenty minutes of commercials?"... "Don't turn corners so sharply; I missed that last comedy climax entirely."... "Stop the car and call the service station; the picture has gone dead!"... "This is an awful automobile! I can't get Break the Bank, Talent Scouts or Drag-net."... No wife is going to be happy if she can't get all the big channels in a $5,000 car. And the driver is not going to register contentment when he can't see the telecast and has to ask somebody in the rear seat if Sergeant Friday is ahead in the hand-to-hand battle with the gangster or not. With a weaving driver just ahead, a wild truck driver on his left, a juvenile hot-rodder on his right and "This Is Your FBI" going full blast in his rear, how can a car operator be responsible for what happens?... We went to the Motorama Show at the Waldorf-Astoria to review the customers... our ambition was to have a suite in the hotel towers, phone room service and say, "Send up a ten thousand dollar sedan."... National Motorboat Show revealed that installment plan buying of yachts is now routine, with many banks lending the dough... If you lack a ranchhouse, a deluxe auto, a TV set, an electric kitchen and a seagoing cruiser these days you are underprivileged... When you observe a fellow with a $50,000 yacht this summer you can't tell whether it means he is wealthy or is in hock... The average man doesn't realize that boat-building is now one of America's biggest and fastest growing industries,

Education By Television Bound To Be Successful

Anybody who has given much thought to educational television and the obstacles it faces must at times have serious doubts that it will ever come to anything, notwithstanding its exciting potentialities. And yet sometimes as I sit glassy-eyed in front of the set I think the time may come when hardly anyone will look at anything else but educational TV.

What makes me think that is that the main appeal of commercial television is entertainment—and necessarily so. The demand for entertainment is practically unlimited but the supply of good entertainment is always woefully short.

What's more, the very nature of TV broadcasting tends to make people intolerant of entertainment that isn't good. (Often this takes a whole lot longer than you'd think, I grant, but it works out that way in the long run.)

First-class entertainers are scarce. You can count the really good comedians on the fingers of two hands. And most of them don't seem as funny as they did a year or two ago.

You could seat all the first-class professional actors and actresses in one theater and the popcorn concessionaire wouldn't break even. True, there probably are enough competent musicians to go around, but music doesn't lend itself very well to visual presentation.

And there always are more than enough acrobats, performing dogs and bicycle acts. But that didn't save vaudeville. The legitimate theater has hung on through the years (by the skin of its teeth) because the average person never saw more than one good play in his life and is willing to sit through an occasional second-rater in hopes of seeing another one. After watching two or three second-raters a night for a certain length of time, though, he is bound to get his belly full.

The circus has lasted a long time, corny as it is, because it gets around only once a year and there is always a new crop of kids to replace the quitters who have seen enough circuses. But clowns and trick livestock would soon pall as a steady diet.

Eventually TV probably will get the best new movies, but it could run through a year's production of them in 30 days. Amusing novelties will crop up from time to time but desperate imitators will smother them out in short order.

Television simply chews up the raw material too fast to last forever as an entertainment medium. In due time it will cease to be a plaything and be recognized for what is obviously was in the first place—a useful means of distributing information and ideas.

People will watch it because they're in classes and have to, or because it tells them things they particularly want to know. Or for the thrill of peering down unfamiliar vistas of knowledge.

And it'll educate them in spite of themselves.

Try and Stop Me —by Bennet Cerf

At a dinner party in the nation's capital, Peter Lind Hayes referred a hassle between a proud daughter of Kentucky and an equally proud son of Texas. The fur—and the boasts—flew in all directions.

"Why, we have so much solid gold stored in Kentucky," concluded the young lady, "we could build a wall of the stuff, ten feet high and four feet thick, clear around the border of Texas."

The Texan smiled tolerantly. "Go right ahead and build it, honey," he urged, "and if we like it, we'll buy it."

When Sam Himmell was a little shaver (that was before the days of electric shavers, of course) he found his store cluttered with 100 unsold copies of "David Harum." He sold them out with one tiny advertisement—in which, it must be added, he had the foresight to change the title to "David's Harum."

Robert S. Allen Reports

Senate Anti-Monopoly Group Set To Blast Dixon-Yates

Washington, January 24 — The Senate Anti-Monopoly Subcommittee is set to explode its long-threatened bombshell.

Unless blocked by a last-minute opposition surprise, the bi-partisan majority, headed by Senator William Langer (R-ND) will publish a report denouncing the embattled Dixon-Yates power contract and advocating three new investigations, as follows:

"The power industry... so that Congress and the country may be fully informed as to the extent of abuses which threaten a repetition of the shocking Insull-Hopson scandals."

"The growth of monopoly, its withering effects upon small business, and its destructive effects upon our free competitive economy."

"The anti-trust laws... to ascertain whether they are adequate and whether they are being effectively enforced by the executive branch of the government."

Senator Everett Dirksen (R-Ill.), lone dissenting Committee member, is preparing a vigorous opposition report. Langer's group includes Senators Harley Kilgore (D-W.Va.) new chairman of the Judiciary Committee, and Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) who is trying to succeed Langer as head of the Anti-Monopoly Subcommittee.

The proposed three new investigations would take place at the same time the Senate Banking Committee is making its announced "study" of the New York Stock Exchange, under the chairmanship of Senator J. W. Fulbright (D-Ark.).

Such a barrage of probes of business and finance at the same time would set a new record on Capitol Hill.

Note: Senator Kilgore has served notice on Justice Department officials that they will be questioned about the handling of certain anti-trust cases, which Democrats claim have not been forcefully prosecuted because of "outside interference." It's an open secret they hope to involve members of the cabinet and White House staff in these charges.

What They'll Say — Senator Langer's report, 115 printed pages in length, is significant for two reasons: (1) It will be the principal basis for a new drive to block the Dixon-Yates contract; (2) It will be used extensively as campaign ammunition by the Democrats.

The report is unsparring in blasting the Dixon-Yates contract, charging it is part of a secret utility drive to cripple

TVA. And to bolster the demand for further investigating, President Theodore Roosevelt is quoted in a 1906 message, as follows: "The great corporations are acting with foresight, singleness of purpose and vision to control the water power of our country... I esteem it my duty to use every endeavor to prevent this growing monopoly, the most threatening which has ever appeared, from being fastened upon the people of this nation."

Other highlights are: "The Dixon-Yates contract was worked out by the Bureau of the Budget and the Atomic Energy Commission in collaboration with TVA's worst enemies behind TVA's back. The Bureau of the Budget-AEC combination, that worked out this deal with the private power industry, took steps to muzzle the chairman of TVA to keep him from discussing the contract when he appeared before the Senate Appropriations Committee, thus deliberately keeping important information from Congress... The Dixon-Yates contract should be withdrawn by the President, pending further investigation on the matter by Congress."

"The evidence presented in the hearings before this Subcommittee leads to two important conclusions: First, that there is a two-pronged drive by the private power industry to destroy public competition in the power business, and second, that Wall Street domination of the power industry has revived many of the holding company evils which Congress sought by legislation to suppress... The Dixon-Yates contract provides a clear example of this."

"The Subcommittee was made increasingly aware of new trends in our economy which raise serious questions as to the adequacy of the anti-trust and anti-monopoly laws and their enforcement... For this reason, Congress must concern itself not only with its important policy-making functions in this field, but also with the enforcement of these policies by the executive branch of the government."

Healthy Children Essential

—by H. G. Heller

Considerable stir is being made about the health of children — one of the challenging problems in many communities of the nation. It is of more than passing interest here because the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is one of the state's which pioneered doing something through compulsory physical examinations in public schools.

Local interest is also maturing as the Monroe County Tuberculosis Society gets ready to propose a general survey and evaluation of the existing public health program here to the numerous agencies engaged in the varied facets of public health work.

There are 29 other states which have laws requiring physical examinations of pupils in their schools. In this state a physician and a dentist take a careful look at each child every second year. About a million pupils pass through the examination rooms.

Cost to the Commonwealth and its taxpayers is around $1,500,000 a year. This sum, only about three-fourths of one per cent of the state's annual budget, would be small indeed to pay for a Pennsylvania population composed of outstandingly healthy children growing into strong and healthy adults. On the other hand, it would be a shocking sum to waste.

The record of school physical examinations shows they are badly needed. In the 1945-46 school year—when the program was new—doctors and dentists found that more than half the children examined had defects or ailments which could and should receive remedial care.

Thanks to the fact examinations disclose such defects and that parents take prompt remedial action, the rate has gone down to about 40 per cent. But 40 per cent means that two of every five children — some 400,000 — are found to have health problems.

It need hardly be emphasized that 400,000 is a lot of children — a lot of future adults. And if this state finds 400,000 ailing children while examining only half its children under the every two year system, the number of children in the United States who need medical and dental care must be tremendous.

The answer to cutting down that 400,000 in the state—some of whom certainly are right here—would require better cooperative efforts on the part of parents, schools, physicians and community health and civic organizations.

The contribution of Mr. and Mrs. Citizen can best be made by a personal affiliation with some responsible group in the community which is working in one of the general fields of community improvement.

Mrs. Barkley Is In Limelight In Congress Circles

By JANE EADS

Washington — Probably one of the most discreetly happy relatives sitting in the Senate galleries the opening day of Congress was the comely, blue-eyed, brunette wife of the junior senator from Kentucky — 76-year-old Alben Barkley.

The former Jane Hadley, the St. Louis widow whose marriage in 1949 captured the headlines and everyone's good wishes, smiled with quiet satisfaction at the prolonged and spontaneous ovation her popular husband received.

The pair, much-feted during the weeks following their marriage, are again very much in demand, with parties galore piling up to welcome them back to the capital after a two years' absence.

During this period, following the senator's retirement after long service in Congress to run unsuccessfully for the Democratic nomination to the presidency in 1952, they have spent much of their time at the Barkley home in Paducah, Ky.

"We're busy, but with me its one-fourth social engagement and three-fourths board meetings," the friendly, always available Jane Barkley told me at the spacious, beautifully furnished Connecticut Avenue apartment the senator has maintained here over the years.

It's no secret that the former Veepe's wife has been ambitious for her husband, that she and her husband enjoy parties and the warmth of the limelight, but the senator's wife is also a noted homemaker and an active, hard-working contributor to many civic and charity enterprises. She has made numerous trips to the capital during the past two years on behalf of these interests — the American Heart Assn., the National Society for Crippled Children and the American University — to mention a few — on whose boards she is a member.

Once head of the Senate Ladies, she expects to rejoin the group of solons' wives when they resume their regular meetings soon to sew and roll bandages for the American Red Cross in the Senate Office building.

"It's like coming home again and I'm very happy," Mrs. Barkley said, "but I always enjoy everything I do."

Jane Hadley, Mrs. Barkley's younger daughter, who has been studying at Oxford University in England, is with her mother and step-father in Washington. Another daughter, Anne, was married in 1952 to Air Force Lt. Weldon Behrend, now stationed in San Angelo, Tex.

Versatile, Self-Primer Applies Easy

TODAY THE Paint Service Center, opposite Sherman Theater, introduces another remarkable Sherwin-Williams product: Flat-Tone... an odorless alkyl flat enamel.

Entirely new and extremely versatile, it is totally unlike conventional flat wall paints you've been used to using. Flat-Tone is made with an odorless thinner, is self-priming over walls or woodwork and dries with a subdued sheen.

Homemakers and painters alike will marvel at its easy application and the effortless way it can be "worked." Flat-Tone can be easily applied with either brush or roller. John Muller, of the Paint Service Center, points out it brushes out exceptionally well, without any trace of brush marks.

Mr. Muller, said Flat-Tone is ideal for all interior wall surfaces, smooth texture and sand-finish plaster, wallboard, smooth masonry and woodwork.

It comes in a large assortment of colors and one coat will normally cover any previously finished surface. When you're finished you'll have not only a beautiful finish, but one that's uniform, tough, and above all scrubbable!

Flat-Tone is made even more adaptable because its colors match perfectly those available in Sherwin-Williams Kem-Glo. This enables you to give your wall a flat-tone finish and have a glossy finish in matching or harmonizing colors for your woodwork.

Flat-Tone sells for $5.15 a gallon (deep colors, $5.39). You can get it now at the Paint Service Center, "the progressive store for color, style & service."

Bride, Groom Left Waiting

BLACKBURN, England, Jan. 23 — Both the bride and groom were left waiting at the altar at St. John's Church yesterday. The vicar failed to show up.

While William Cowell, 20, and pretty Ellen Greaves, 21, waited nervously, the best man hurried to the vicarage. No one was home.

Another clergyman two miles away was persuaded to officiate. The Rev. L. E. H. Swan, the absent vicar, explained later: "I am afraid I forgot all about it."

HERE IS A picture of the Paint Service Center, 517 Main St., Stroudsburg, as it used to look. But if you've been in the local store lately you know some major changes are taking place. Today "The Center" is introducing a new odorless flat enamel paint; the store's interior is being given a "new look" and on February 10th a new Drapery Hardware Dept. will be opened. It will include traverse rods, pleating tape and curtain rods. This new department will completely round out the store's present feature of wallpaper and matching drapery combinations.

Miller Says Carpet Most Important To All Rooms

PROBABLY the most popular nationally advertised brands at A. C. Miller are "those heavenly carpets by Lees."

Perhaps most homemakers have never thought of it in this light, but the carpet is the most important single furnishing of any room.

Not only because it is the most useful furnishing, but also because it covers such a large area that it usually sets the tone for your entire decorating scheme. If you choose it wisely, a new carpet or rug can be one of the longest lasting, most satisfying investments you can possibly make.

The three most important things to remember are:

- (1) Buy from a dealer who is both reliable and well informed, one in whose advice you have confidence.

(2) Insist on a well-known advertised brand, loomed by a mill with an unquestioned reputation for quality.

(3) Buy the best grade you can afford, remembering that you'll expect many years of service from the carpet you select.

Visit the A. C. Miller main floor showroom this week and see their new Lees' carpet selector. You can be assured of both courteous and dependable service, plus the ultimate in recognized quality.

Sid Reckners Buckwheat Cakes Tops

"LIKE MOTHER used to make" is what you'll say after putting away a generous helping of Sid Reckner's "old fashioned buckwheat cakes." Sid realized one day that the old fashioned buckwheat cakes were fast becoming extinct from the modern day menu, and remembering how he and others used to enjoy them so much he decided to put them on his daily menu as a feature.

They're correctly made and hold a constant standard of good taste and aroma. Try them sometime... you'll find out what you've been missing since you last had them.

But don't think that buckwheat cakes are the only feature at Reckner's Bridge Stop Restaurant, actually his entire menu is a feature. From hamburgers to platters... everything is prepared

McCullough Chain Saws At Yetter's

IF YOU'VE been looking for a light-weight one-man chain saw Van D. Yetter can solve your problems. The new Model 33 McCulloch weighs only 20 lbs.

This gasoline powered saw is the lightest weight of all one-man chain saws. Yet it is a professional quality tool, capable of production logging in timber two and three feet in diameter, and even larger.

The cutting speed of this compact, convenient saw is exceptional, as a result of the high horsepower actually delivered on the chain. In addition, the blade and Sabertooth chain are a new, narrower, fast-cutting design. In repeated tests, the Model 33 saw has cut through trees and logs of 15 inch diameter in less than one minute.

The McCulloch Model 33 chain saw is recommended for farm and resort use, for cutting pulp and cordwood, for tree maintenance, for construction and land clearing, and for all other woodcutting operations not requiring the higher capacity of large McCulloch models.

See the line of McCulloch Chain Saws on display at Van D. Yetter's today... Prices start at only $195.00. Van D. Yetter's showroom is located along Route 402, near Marshalls Creek, Pa.

Miller Has Heating Plan SelectTemp

IF YOU HAVE lived in a one-thermostat home you know how hard it is to keep the temperature in every room at the level which you and your family require for comfort.

Accurate control of the heating in each individual room has long been the goal of heating engineers. Now, with the SelectTemp heating system this control is not only possible, but practical from the standpoint of cost and operating expense.

Since each room has its own thermostat you can select the exact temperature you want, for any room, at any time. The living room, for example, can be at 72 degrees, bathroom at 75, kitchen at 65, and the bedrooms at a comfortable sleeping temperature without affecting the rest of the house. And these temperatures can be changed at any time with a touch of your finger. Or possibly you will want to step up the temperature of a child's room to say 80 degrees, temporarily, because of illness, so you won't worry if the kids covers off. All of this is possible with SelectTemp. Even grandmother's room ceases to be a problem.

But that's not all, each room unit automatically modulates its heat output. If the room needs less heat the unit does not turn off... it just slows down. Overheating experienced with "on-off" thermostat control. Room units have a range of from 5% to 100% of their rated heat control.

SelectTemp at R. F. Miller & Son, 710 Ann St., Stroudsburg, is the biggest value in heating today, featuring low purchasing price, low fuel bills (gas, oil or coal), low electric bills (no electrically powered pumps or fans) and low maintenance cost (very simple mechanism, inherently trouble-free and built for extra long life.)

One In Six Office Workers Belong To Union

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (U) — Labor Department survey showed today that one in every six office workers in major U. S. cities now is covered by union contract.

The survey, published in the department's monthly Labor Review, also showed that 8 of every 10 plant workers in the 17 cities surveyed are covered.

The department said earlier surveys were not comparable with the latest one, which shows that about two-thirds of the nearly 74 million workers surveyed are under contracts.

Russians, Chinese Reds Play Hot, Play Cold In Obvious War Of Attrition On Free World

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

THE CHINESE make warlike noises about Formosa.

The Chinese make peaceful noises about the American prisoners they hold as spies.

The Russians make warlike noises about West European defense.

The Russians make peaceful noises about coexistence.

It causes one to wonder: Have they taken a leaf from the book of the Soviet scientist Pavlov? Are they trying to produce neurosis in the Western world?

Pavlov showed the way in experiments with dogs. He carefully trained the dogs so that when he rapped slowly on a board, it meant food. When he rapped quickly, it meant punishment.

After a while, whenever Pavlov rapped slowly, the dogs' mouths would water. When he rapped quickly, the dogs would cringe.

Then, suddenly, Pavlov reversed the procedure. He rapped slowly and the dog was punished. He rapped quickly and the dog got food.

The dog became a nervous wreck.

That sort of attrition, whether consciously based upon Pavlov or not, is going on in the Communist world today. At the least, they hope to keep the Western world totally off balance. At the most they may hope to produce a confusion so complete that it will amount to creating neurotics en masse.

The gesture of Peiping in offering to permit relatives of the imprisoned American airmen to visit the prisoners obviously is designed to show the world—particularly the Asian world—that China is the reasonable party in today's conflicts, the party of peace, the party anxious to avert the threat of war. Thus, it seems more than likely that the Red Chinese eventually will release the imprisoned American airmen, at the moment when it will do them the most good. This moment can come just before the important conference of representatives of the entire non-white world—the Asian-African conference scheduled to convene in Indonesia this spring.

Such a move could well be calculated to bolster Red China's claim to a seat in the United Nations. At the same time it could be calculated to make the Red Chinese appear the injured party in the question of Formosa, despite their warlike approach to a solution.

Both Red China and the Russians are at one and the same time attempting to frighten and to wheedle the non-Communist world, apparently in the hope of emerging from the clouds of confusion with significant advantages in the cold war.

LAST FRIDAY was one of the biggest days in basketball this year, at least as far as fans in Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg were concerned. It marked the first time this season that both local high school quintets won on the same night against scholastic opposition. Stroudsburg won over Emmaus, 70-56, and East Stroudsburg took the measure of Bangor, 77-60. One of the largest crowds of the current campaign was on hand to see the Mountaineers down Emmaus.

Stroudsburg, although not playing its best basketball of the current campaign, passed the ball better than at any time since the game with Scranton Central, that is from this reporter's vantage point. But the Mountaineers, despite their terrific advantage in height, appeared weak on both backboards. Emmaus played the contest without three of its regulars, one being on the shelf with a broken hand, another with a damaged leg and a third because of illness.

When the Lehigh Valley League begins picking its all-star team I hope coaches throughout the circuit will remember Ronnie Miller, number 24 for Emmaus. Although small in size, Miller is a brilliant passer, a fine play-maker and a real scoring threat. Emmaus, winner of only one first-half game at the present time, is coached by Ken Moyer, a graduate of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College.

East Stroudsburg demonstrated a well rounded attack in defeating Bangor and finished the first half of the Lehigh-Northampton League in seventh place. Bangor and the Cavaliers were tied for seventh and eighth position when the firing began on Friday and the Slayers dropped to eighth, despite a 22-point scoring spree by Don Keat. Bob "Red" Kupiszewski led the Eastburg attack with 20 counters, his top output of the campaign.

While Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg were calmly winning basketball games, fireworks were flashing at Palmerton, where the pride and joy of the Lehigh Valley League was tangling with cellar-dwelling Lehigh. The Indians, coached by Stroudsburg's Ben Jones, went down to a 55-27 defeat at the hands of the undefeated Bombers, but not before creating a little excitement. Palmerton led by a 22-10 count at halftime and with the beginning of the third quarter Lehighmen threw up a "freeze", similar to the one used by Palmerton against Stroudsburg.

Win Evans, Palmerton coach, figured his "freeze" against him. Evans went over to the rival bench and let it be known to Jones that he was angry about the manner in which the Indians were keeping the ball out of play. Palmerton came after the ball on occasion and when the home team made its move Lehighmen drove for field goals. During the course of second half play the Bombers scored seven doubleheaders.

A total of 19 Palmerton points came on foul shots during the course of the third and fourth quarters. It is this columnist's opinion that Evans is upset over the "freezing" tactics because it is cutting down on individual and team scoring marks. Evans a short time ago said a couple of his boys could be among the leading scorers in the area if he allowed them to play every minute of the game. The "freezing" tactics in the past two outings have hurt the team's high scoring mark and the individual scorers.

Lehighmen joined Stroudsburg as the only teams to hold Palmerton under 60 points this season. A warning might be in order for Mr. Evans. Look for Catusaqua to "freeze" the ball tomorrow night. If the opportunity presents itself, Bob Mushrush's Catty quintet opposes Palmerton for the first half of the game. Both teams are currently coasting along with league records of six wins and no defeats. Palmerton is undefeated for the season, having won 15 straight.

Palmerton holds a decision over Catusaqua this season, having defeated the Rough Riders in the Lehigh Valley Invitation Tournament in Smith Hall during the Christmas holidays. I might suggest that the Palmerton coach be more careful of the things he dishes out in the future—that is if he can't take the same medicine in return. Jones and Stroudsburg's coach John Kupic were classmates in high school and the former would like to defeat his old friend tomorrow night. Stroudsburg will have to be at its very best to beat the Indians on their home court.

Kansas City Invites Steele To Special Training Camp

RAY STEELE, former basketball and baseball star at East Stroudsburg High School, will be one of 40 Kansas City farmhands attending a special trout school next week, the American League club informed the lanky right handed pitcher recently.

Steele, preparing for his third year of professional ball, will report to Sanford, Fla., on Monday, February 14. He plans to leave his Pike County home on Saturday, February 12. Ray has already signed his 1955 contract.

Ray originally signed with the Philadelphia A's, but became property of the Kansas City club when Connie Mack and sons, Earl and Roy, sold their interest in the A's and they in turn were moved to Kansas City.

Steele pitched with Ottawa, International League; Savannah, Ga., in the class "A" Sally League, and with Drummondville, of the class "C" Provincial League, last season.

The lanky fire-baller won only one of his first seven games with Drummondville, but in mid-June began a streak which enabled him to finish with 11 victories and nine defeats.

Kansas City has invited its top 40 farm hands to this special camp in an effort to find one or two players good enough to go to spring training with the A's.

Steele has been informed that he will go to Columbus, O., of the International League, if he doesn't make the American League contingent.

Ray is currently number two in the Pocono Mountains Basketball League scoring race. He is playing center for Gray's Chevrolet. Steele holds virtually every basketball scoring and baseball pitching record at East Stroudsburg High.

Steele also played a portion of one season of basketball at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College.

Rival Leagues Approach Pact

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 23 (AP)—The president of the Canadian Rugby Union, made up of professional football teams (Big Four), says his group and America's National Football League will come to agreement "possibly within the next month or sooner" in the star players' battle.

Ralph Cooper of Hamilton, Ont., who heads the Canadian Big Four, made the statement yesterday after four hours of secret huddling with Commissioner Bert Bell of the NFL.

After the discussion with five Canadian representatives, Bell said "we have come a long way toward burying the hatchet." He added the player situation was not settled but "we are going to try to work out an amicable solution."

The player dispute mainly concerns the signing of players already under contract or on option to a club in the other organization.

Pocono Manor Pro Wins $220

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Jan. 23 (AP)—Among the money winners in the $15,000 San Diego Open golf tournament won by Tommy Bolt today were the following Pennsylvanians:

Henry Williams, Reading, whose 68-74-72-69—283 total netted him $220; Art Wall of Pocono Manor, with a 68-71-72-72—283 for $220, and Lionel Hebert of Erie with 74-68-72-70—284 for $165. Hebert's brother, Jay, who plays out of Long Island, N. Y., shot a 70-71-71-70—282 to win $320.

Everyone Welcome To Attend Tomorrow Night's Baseball Class

ADULTS and older boys are welcome to attend tomorrow's baseball clinic being staged by the Stroudsburg Little League, as well as players, managers, coaches and league officials, it was revealed last night by Jack Mullins, circuit president.

Mullins pointed out that any adult in Monroe County, and surrounding territory, is welcome to attend. Older boys may also attend the clinic, but must limit their activities to those of a spectator.

The clinic class is being held for Stroudsburg Little League players and officials only because of the limited space and instruction time.

Ray Welsh, well known scout for the Pittsburgh Pirates, will headline the clinic staff of three major league talent hunters. Welsh is a resident of 1064 Dreher Ave., Stroudsburg.

Carter Meets Woods In Spokane Ring

By MURRAY ROSE

The Associated Press. LIGHTWEIGHT champion Jimmy Carter, and two leading contenders, heavyweight Nino Valdes and middleweight Joey Giardello, are the featured fighters in action this week.

Carter, making his first start since he regained the 135-pound crown from Paddy De Marco in San Francisco last Nov. 17, faces Bobby Woods in Spokane, Wash., in a non-title 10-rounder in Spokane Wednesday night.

The Carter-Woods scrap won't be telecast but Giardello's return to action the same night against Al Andrews of Superior, Wis., in Norfolk, Va., will be telecast coast to coast (CBS-TV, 10 p.m.).

Giardello hasn't fought since he outpointed Ralph (Tiger) Jones, recent conqueror of Ray Robinson, on Sept. 24. The time since has been a troublesome period for the Peck's Bad Boy of boxing.

In a busy four months, he underwent a knee operation that cost him a title shot, was arrested for participating in a brawl, indicted by a grand jury for that same incident, was suspended by the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission and then reinstated and fined by the same body.

If he can stay out of trouble and beat Andrews, no difficult feat these days, the Philadelphia man will still wind up with a shot at Bobo Olson's middleweight crown.

Valdes, winner of 10 straight goes after No. 11 against Jack Flood of Spokane at Huntington, Va., Tuesday night. The big Cuban, ranked as the No. 1 contender for Rocky Marciano's crown, has scored six knockouts in his win string.

Ramon Fuentes, third ranking welterweight contender from Los Angeles meets middleweight George Johnson of Trenton, N.J., in Philadelphia's Convention Hall Friday night in a 10-rounder. The bout will broadcast and telecast coast to coast (NBC Radio-TV, 10 p.m.).

Angelo Brisei, newest importation from Italy, makes his American debut against Pete Adams of Newark, N.J., in a middleweight 10-rounder at New York's St. Nicholas Arena tomorrow night (DuMont-TV, 10 p.m.).

In another middleweight 10 Monday, veteran Paddy Young of New York faces Tony Johnson, another New Yorker, at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway Arena (ABC-TV, 10 p.m.).

Chico Vejar, fresh out of the Army, starts a comeback in his home town of Stamford, Conn., Friday night, meeting Reggie Alotti, of New York, in a middleweight 10.

The week's bouts also include:

Tuesday

At Chicago Waldo Fusaro, Italy, vs. Carlo Sarlo, Chicago, welter, 10; at Danbury, Conn., Mickey McGrath, Danbury, vs. Gunnar Warme, Bridgeport, light heavies 6; at New Orleans, Billy Lynch, Hartford, Conn., vs. Lawrence Armstead, New Orleans, lights, 10; at Trenton, N.J., Vinnie De Carlo, Philadelphia, vs. Roy Alston, Trenton, middles, 8.

Thursday

At Los Angeles Bob Albright, Los Angeles, vs. Dave Whitlock, Los Angeles, heavies, 10; at Birmingham, Ala., Oscar Pharo, Birmingham, vs. Dave Bondulich, Argentina, heavies, 10.

Joost Signs With Indians

CLEVELAND, Jan. 23 (AP)—Eddie Joost, former Philadelphia Athletics manager, will try out with the Cleveland Indians at their spring training camp in Tucson, Ariz., general manager Hank Greenberg said today.

Now 38, Joost will seek a spot as a utility infielder and pinch hitter.

Last season, as manager of the A's, Joost played in only 19 games and in 47 times at bat averaged .362. He was given his unconditional release when the Athletics were moved to Kansas City.

U. S. Lawn Tennis Association Hits Mulloy With Six-Month Suspension For Violations

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP)—The West Coast has won its point, and as a result the Davis Cup Challenge round and the National Tennis Championships have been crammed into an 11-day stretch this summer at Forest Hills.

Under present plans the Davis Cup matches are scheduled for August 26-28 at the plush grass courts. And to the chagrin of Cup officials, a West Coast voting bloc moved up the Nationals to follow on the heels of the Cup finals, August 29-September 5.

The shift of the dates for the Nationals, originally planned for September 2-11, came in a heated hour-long session of the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association yesterday.

Also coming out of the annual meeting was a token six-month suspension against the veteran Gardner Mulloy of Miami, Fla., for amateur violations. The suspension, an outgrowth of a Miami tournament last February, is retroactive to last September 24, thus enabling the 41-year-old Mulloy to enter the major tournament circuit beginning in April.

The question of the Davis Cup and National dates was forced to a vote showdown by the Pacific Coast delegation, headed by John E. Sison. Of major concern to the west coast group was the protection of the Pacific southwest championship, opening in mid-September.

The schedule committee of the USLTA had hoped to stage the Nationals beginning September 2, allowing a five-day rest after the Cup finale. But the West Coast group contended that would be in conflict with USLTA's record of favoring an end to the Nationals on Labor Day, September 5, of this year.

Despite the warning of Alrick Man, chairman of the Davis Cup committee, that a consecutive tennis session would mean a loss of about $11,000 in gate receipts, the West Coast won the battle in a proxy vote which showed 35,850 for the schedule change and 30,825 against.

Dane Shows Heels To U. S. Miler

By HERB ALTSCHULL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP)—Gunnar Nielsen, a husky blond speedster from Denmark, declared today after a record-breaking performance in the Evening Star Games that miler Wes Santee does not frighten him.

"The only man I fear is Roger Bannister," the 26-year-old Dane said in halting English. "Santee? I can beat him."

That's exactly what Nielsen did last night in the Star Games—and convincingly. He allowed Santee to set the pace midway into the last of the eight laps and then passed the Kansas runner in a breeze.

Nielsen's time was 4:09.5, shaving four seconds off the meet record. It was one of the fastest times ever recorded over a flat indoor track. But Gunnar wasn't happy about it.

"The first quarter was too slow," he said. "I could have made it in 4:06 without any trouble if the first quarter had been faster."

The indoor record of 4:05.3 held by Gil Dodds is going to get a vigorous challenge from Nielsen from here on in.

He's correct about the slow first quarter. Lou Olive of the U.S. Military Academy elected to set the pace for the first quarter mile and was clocked in the slow time of 68 seconds.

The pace picked up after that, with Santee surging into the lead at the halfway mark. Nielsen hung close to his heels and went after Wes on the final lap. The Dane's brilliant last quarter time was 56.8 seconds.

Santee, the fastest U.S. miler in history, was an unhappy boy after Nielsen had reversed the result of the Philadelphia Inquirer Games Friday. "It was just one of those breaks," said Santee, who trailed Nielsen by 15 yards at the finish.

Santee is going to be the major opposition for the future half-dozen indoor races in store for Nielsen. But Gunnar said he has no doubt he'll be able to beat Santee from here on in. Nielsen, one of the top milers in the world, ran second to England's 4-minute amasher, Bannister, in the European 1,500-meter race last year.

Sharing the glory with Nielsen at the eighth annual Star Games, witnessed by a sellout National Guard Armory crowd of 6,000, were Fred Wilt, the ex-FBI star; Art Bragg, the Morgan State sprinter; The Rev. Bob Richards, the pole vaulter, and a Villanova sophomore named Charlie Jenkins.

Bragg won the sprint series in a stirring duel with Rod Richards, formerly of UCLA. Wilt upset Horace Ashenfelter in the 2-mile race, while Richards set a new mark of 15 feet, 4 inches, in the pole vault.

Young Jenkins captured the crowd's fancy with a spectacular finish to the College Mile Relay event that wound up the program.

Trailing by 10 yards when handed the baton for his 440 leg, Jenkins passed Morgan State's anchor man as if he were standing still and finished 10 yards in front. He was clocked in 49.1 seconds, just fair for one of the country's most promising young runners.

POCONO PINES — Lake Harmony took over undisputed possession of first place in the Pocono Mountains Basketball League on Saturday night by scoring a 94-67 verdict over Barrett. The game was played as the second half of a doubleheader here on the Tobyhanna Township High School court.

Prior to last night's outing Lake Harmony had shared first place

But Stroudsburg and Gray's Chevrolet were idle last weekend and Lake Harmony went to the head of the class with a mark of five victories and only one unfavorable decision.

Either the Stroudsburg Poconos or Gray's Chevrolet will drop off the pace temporarily tonight as they clash in Tannersville, on the Pocono High School court.

The Poconos and Chevrolet quintet battle at 7:15 p. m., while Johnson's Diner and Lake Harmony meet in the nightcap. Lake Harmony will attempt to stretch its lead in tonight's action.

Second game hostilities are listed for approximately 8:30 p. m.

A third game is on the agenda today and it will pit West End against Williams' Pharmacy, on the Chestnut Hill High court, at Brodheadville. This tussle will begin at 8 p. m.

Williams' Pharmacy took the measure of Johnson's Diner, 96-64, in the first half of last Saturday's doubleheader in the TTIS gym.

On Wednesday Stroudsburg and Williams' Pharmacy play at Stroudsburg High. Thursday will see Gray's Chevrolet against West End, in Brodheadville, and Johnson's Diner against Barrett.

Lake Harmony and Williams' Pharmacy meet on the TTIS floor next Saturday.

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 23 (AP)—Weary Babe Zaharias won the Tampa Women's Open Golf tournament today for the third time, her 72-hole total of 298 nipping her old rival Louise Suggs by one stroke.

Both veterans turned in the same score today, 77, two over women's par for the 6,207-yard Palm Cota course.

The victory gave Mrs. Zaharias, a Tampa resident, $1,000 of the $5,000 prize money. Miss Suggs, playing out of Cincinnati, received $700.

Beverly Hanson, from Indio, Calif., wound up with 81 today and a total of 303, good for third place and $600.

North Carolina State Makes Bid For First Place In Poll By Defeating LaSalle, 76-73

By BEN OLAN

The Associated Press
NORTH Carolina State's Wolfpack, on the prowl for the number one ranking among the nation's college basketball teams, may not reach their goal, but they're fast establishing the reputation as the coolest customers in the game.

The Clutch Kids from Raleigh, runnersup to Kentucky in the last Associated Press poll, brought their record to 16-3 Saturday night with a hard-fought 76-73 victory over LaSalle, staving off a rally by the fourth-ranked Explorers in the closing seconds.

In a schedule abbreviated by mid-year examinations, Kentucky, Duquesne, Northwestern, Pennsylvania and St. Louis passed their tests with flying colors.

The North Carolina State victory was its seventh "squeaker" of the campaign. The Wolfpack whipped St. John's of Brooklyn and Minnesota by one point, Wake Forest by two, North Carolina by three and Temple and Duke by five. Their defeats were administered by Maryland, Villanova and North Carolina.

Speedy guard Vic Molodet, the smallest man on the court at six feet, starred for N. C. State. His flashy ball-stealing, coupled with 19 points, was a big factor. All-America Tom Gola was held to 14 points for LaSalle, which cut down an 11 point deficit to two points with half a minute to play.

Kentucky forged into an early lead and romped to an 84-66 Southeastern Conference victory over Tennessee. The Wildcats, paced by Bob Burrow's 24 points, ran up a 44-25 lead at the intermission as they chalked up their 11th triumph against a lone defeat.

Duquesne woke up in the final seven minutes to beat a stubborn St. Bonaventure club 57-56. St. Green picked up the 10-point Duke, who had trailed by eight points, then led the way in a driving finale and finished with 24 points.

Northwestern jumped into first place in the Big Ten race by overwhelming Iowa 93-73 in a nationally-televased game as Frank Ehmann canned 31 points, 24 of them in the second half.

Michigan State pulled an even bigger upset by drubbing Minnesota 87-75 and Purdue knocked Ohio State into the league cellar by tripping the Buckeyes 93-82. Robin Freeman, the Buckeyes' scoring ace, scored 20 points before he retired early in the second half with a wrenched ankle.

The results gave Northwestern a 3-1 record in Big Ten play followed by Illinois, Iowa and Minnesota, all with 3-2. Illinois and Iowa were idle.

Penn moved into a tie with Cornell for the Ivy League lead by subduing hapless Yale 91-71 for a 5-1 conference record and a 12-2 record, overall. The Quakers never trailed in a contest that dragged through the first several minutes as Yale played possession ball, refusing to shoot. Co-captain Bart Leach registered 19 points for the winners.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Sharon, Farrell To Battle For Major Basketball Title

HARRISBURG, Jan. 23 (AP)—Sharon and Farrell, vying for basketball leadership in the WPIAL section 2, meet Tuesday night in a clash that could herald the championship of the rugged District 10.

Both carried excellent records into Friday night games and both came out victors by nearly identical scores.

Farrell, defending district champion, battered Aliquippa 67-49, while Sharon topped Ellwood City, 64-50. Of the two losers, Ellwood City has the better win-loss record, tallying 9-4 including the Friday game, while Aliquippa has a 5-9 log.

For the Tuesday battle, Sharon has the slight psychological advantage of playing on its home floor. But Farrell is considered one of the top high school teams in the nation.

Sharon now has a 12-0 season record, while the Steelers have a 14-1 card, the only loss being to Greensburg by a three-point margin.

Elsewhere in the WPIAL Midland continued on top of Section 8 by defeating second-place Monaca by a lopsided 62-31. The victory was No. 4 for Midland in loop competition.

In Section 1, powerful New Kensington easily swept over Har-Brack, 82-43 for its fifth straight victory in the circuit.

Meanwhile, defending District 10 champion Meadville crushed Warren 72-53 in a Section 2 game, but circuit leadership was still in doubt after Titusville edged Franklin, 55-52, to maintain a tie with the champions.

Meadville and Titusville now have 3-0 league records.

In the northern tier league of District 9, defending champion Kane automatically moved into first place as Clearfield dropped its first league game in four starts.

The previously unbeaten Bisons were topped by Bradford, 76-61. The win gave Bradford a 2-2 record for the season in league play.

In the Tri-County League of District 6, defending district champion and league leader Johnstown trampled Indiana, 75-39, for its 11th victory in 13 starts. For the losers, the game brought their season record to 7-3.

In other District 6 action, State College took over leadership in the Central State League by defeating Renovo, 56-50.

Until their Friday night game, Renovo and State College were tied for second a half game behind Bellefonte. But Jersey Shore, only a half game out of the league cellar, defeated Bellefonte, 49-43.

In District 5, little Berlin, which won the district championship last year, but has dropped out of Class A ball for the current campaign, easily defeated Rockwood, 51-29, to maintain its unbeaten skein.

In the Susquehanna League of District 4, Sunbury won the first half title by defeating Mifflinburg.

Swiss Sled Speeds To Victory

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Jan. 23 (AP)—Fritz Feierabend, during 47-year-old Swiss bobsledder, flashed to victory today in the two-man world championships.

Feierabend outraced 15 other mile-a-minute sleds from nine nations on the icy, twisting mile-long bobsled run to capture the world title for the third time.

The lanky Feierabend, who also holds the four-man world crown, had his countryman, Harry Warburton, as brakeman aboard his hurtling, 360 pound red and silver sled.

They posted a total time of 5 minutes, 33.28 seconds for four heats down the glare icy slide.

The United States No. one sled, driven by Dick Severino of Saratoga Springs, N. Y., and braked by Airman Bill Williams of Rockingham, N. C., finished sixth with a total time of 5:36.90.

WHEN SHOOTING PRESSURE IS HEAVY ON STREAMS AND PONDS, MALLARDS MAY DESERT THEM DURING THE DAY TO JOIN DIVER SPECIES OF DUCKS ON LARGE BODIES OF OPEN WATER. THUS MALLARD DECOYS MAY ALSO BE USED WITH "DIVER" DECOYS.

Air Force Wins Missile Controls

By Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23—The Air Force has won a major policy victory in inner Pentagon councils.

The Air Force has been given control over strategic guided missiles.

Under this new mission, approved by Defense Secretary Charles Wilson, the Air Force has jurisdiction over strategic (long-range) guided missiles to supplement its already-assigned role to conduct strategic bombing.

The decision is expected to have important effect on the size of the Air Force in the future development of strategic missiles.

The Army made a vigorous bid for this assignment, but was overruled by Secretary Wilson. The Army will continue to have control over tactical guided missiles, such as the Nike, which is now defending Washington and other key cities.

Under Secretary Wilson's new order, the Navy scored one point. It is authorized to attack "strategic targets."

Local Police Officers Invited To Attend FBI Bank Robbery Law Enforcement Sessions

NORMAN H. McCabe, Special Agent in Charge of the Philadelphia Office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, announced today that the FBI Law Enforcement Conference on Bank Robbery will be held on April 26, 1955, in Allentown, Pa. Additional conferences will be held on April 27th at Scranton, April 28th at Harrisburg, and May 3rd at Philadelphia.

Mr. McCabe said more than 100 conferences of this type have been scheduled this year by the FBI on a regional basis throughout the United States and are designed to cover violations of the Federal Bank Robbery Statute. The conferences will be aimed at bringing about additional coordination among law enforcement agencies and improved efficiency in dealing with this crime. They will be operated on a forum basis providing for a mutual exchange of information and knowledge by all participants.

The necessity of such conferences is highlighted by the fact that the victimization of financial institutions has increased steadily since the end of World War II. There were 517 violations of the Federal Bank Robbery Statute in 1954 as compared to 418 in the previous year, an increase of 23.6 per cent. Mr. McCabe also pointed out that it is almost impossible for a law enforcement agency to identify and apprehend bank robbers without assistance from bank employees and other citizens.

In addition to FBI personnel, the conference will also be attended by representatives of banks, banking associations, insurance groups, and others.

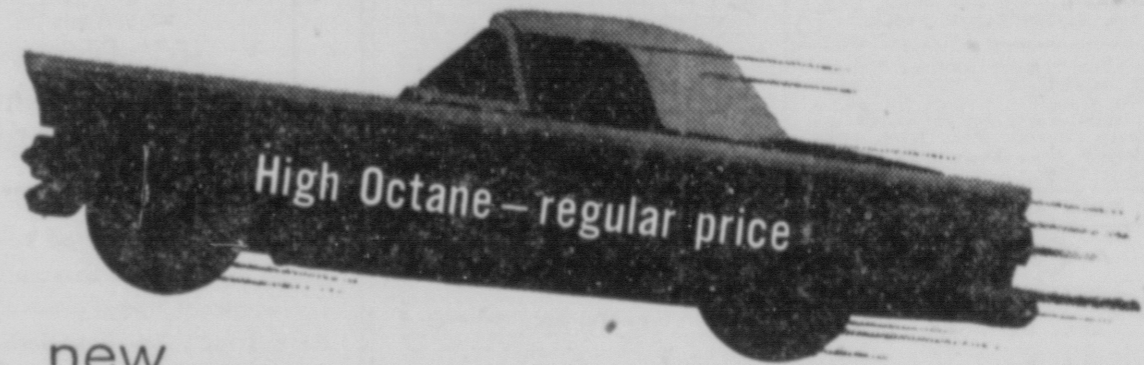

The pattern of the conferences will follow that of the successful series of similar meetings held by the FBI during the past three years. In 1952, there were 131 auto theft conferences throughout the country which were attended by 8,707 individuals representing 3,121 agencies. There were 133 conferences in 1953 on thefts from interstate shipment. These were attended by 8,702 persons representing 4,159 agencies. During 1954, 144 conferences were held regarding the Interstate Transportation of Stolen Property and were attended by 10,142 persons representing 5,570 agencies.
